Profile

Jeremy practices in a wide variety of areas and in every phase of litigation, including trials and appeals. He successfully represents institutional and individual clients in federal, state and bankruptcy courts, as well as arbitration proceedings.

He has litigated commercial, contract, employment, securities and municipal actions. His diverse experience includes bringing and defending proceedings to dissolve closely held corporations, negotiating stock sales, successfully prosecuting and defending commercial landlord-tenant disputes, winning breach of warranty and revocation actions and obtaining favorable judgements in proceedings against municipalities, among other litigated cases and appeals.

Prior to joining Bond, Jeremy was a founding partner of the Rochester law firm Adams Leclair LLP. Before that he had a complex commercial and securities practice at the New York City law firm of Miller & Wrubel P.C. Jeremy clerked for U.S. Magistrate Judge Theodore H. Katz in the Southern District of New York.
