Profile

Lindsay focuses her practice on education and municipal law and serves as general and labor counsel to school districts and municipal clients. She provides daily guidance to clients on a wide range of subjects, including data security and privacy, procurement policies, student and employee discipline, compliance with laws and policies related to harassment and bullying, the Freedom of Information Law, the Open Meetings Law and contracting with third-party providers.

In addition, Lindsay represents public and private sector clients in matters relating to construction and energy performance agreements, including negotiating and drafting contracts, preparing bids and analyzing bid-related disputes, performance bonds and insurance documentation.

Lindsay has lectured on a variety of education issues at conferences sponsored by the Suffolk Academy of Law, the New York State Association of School Attorneys, and the New York State School Boards Association.
