Profile

Bob is chair of the firm's property department and chair of the firm's environmental and energy practice.

He assists industrial, commercial, institutional and municipal clients to resolve New York State and federal regulatory compliance and enforcement concerns. A significant aspect of Bob's practice involves counseling clients regarding air pollution control requirements, such as permitting and new source review, and in developing strategies to ensure compliance with requirements imposed by the federal Clean Air Act. In addition, he also counsels clients regarding (1) site development issues and environmental reviews under the State Environmental Quality Review Act, (2) petroleum and chemical substance issues, including remediation, (3) safety and health issues, (4) the environmental aspects of real property and business transactions, and (5) environmental litigation matters.
