

Collegiate Sports

Overview

Collegiate Sports and NCAA Attorneys

Success in intercollegiate athletics today requires more than winning teams. It requires a detailed knowledge of, and scrupulous compliance with, a multitude of rules and laws.

It requires the management of staff and resources in a manner that is fiscally sound and consistent with the educational mission of the institution. It requires taking every precaution to protect institutional integrity in an area that can generate intense public attention. In this complex environment, there are times when the best of efforts can go awry and additional resources are needed to meet these challenges.

The collegiate sports practice at Bond is the nation's premier practice group for the representation of colleges and universities in NCAA rules compliance, eligibility and infractions matters. Our history of involvement and experience in NCAA-related matters is unmatched, and our attorneys are far and away the most qualified, capable and experienced in this area of unique and complex regulations. In addition, Bond has one of the nation's premier attorneys in negotiating collegiate multi-media, coaching and athletic administration employment contracts.

FORWARD PROGRESS

The Collegiate Sports Practice Group is affiliated with Forward Progress Athletics Consulting and the two organizations work together when NCAA Academic Performance Program (APP) management is needed in conjunction with the Group's NCAA rules compliance, eligibility and infractions counsel. This collaboration offers NCAA Division I collegiate sports clients the full breadth of NCAA regulatory and APP services delivered by the leaders in this field. For additional information on Forward Progress, follow this link: <http://forwardprogressac.com/>.

Primary Office Contacts

Kansas City

Mike Glazier

Meghan Gulvas

John G. Long II

Kyle D. Ritchie

Michael Sheridan

Kyle Skillman

Syracuse, NY

Robert H. Kirchner

Philip J. Zaccheo